Federal Funds To Provide Asst. Manager

Funds for three new proposed positions in the town have been approved under the Emergency Employment Act of President Nixon, including that of management aide, a planning aide and a clerk for the public works department.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported that he had been notified Tuesday by the Northern Essex Emergency Employment Consortium in Haverhill, that Andover's request for funding had been approved.

The consortium, composed of 16 Essex County cities and towns, will distribute in excess of $1,000,000 over a two year period to relieve unemployment.

Austin said that the town had submitted requests for funds for nine new positions, but that initial approval was for three.

The management aide has been designated as an administrative assistant to the town manager. Austin said that the position would be filled in order to relieve his office so that he could devote more time to matters that need attention.

The position will carry an annual salary of $9,450.

The position of planning aide for the planning department will carry a similar salary and will provide for the first time, a permanent professional planning assistant in that department.

The town manager said that while the need for outside consultants would not cease immediately, it would place in the town's employ a person to put the town in a position of eliminating immediate reaction to proposals.

The male clerk-accountant for the public works department will be used at the garage, Austin said. Salary for the position is $5,686.

Approval for establishing the other positions, most within the works department and the town house is expected within a six month period.

The authorization on Tuesday, permits the town manager to proceed immediately toward filling the positions, Austin said.

Consultants To Study Dump Sites

Metcalf and Eddy, engineering firm, has been retained by the town as consultants to evaluate, estimate and recommend one of three sites under consideration for a sanitary disposal site.

The new site will replace the present dump operation which is rapidly nearing capacity. Town meeting has approved the study and evaluation of a new site.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported this week that the consultants will consider the Parks property adjacent to the present site, a former gravel pit operation in Lowell Junction near the industrially zoned area and the Cronin gravel pit area off Woburn street near the Wilmington line.

Purpose of the study to be undertaken by the consultants is to collect data and do subsurface exploration of the three sites and prepare the information pertinent to making a recommendation to the local and state boards of health for a new sanitary disposal site.

Budget Analyzed

Late School Bus Plan Is Scrapped

The school committee talked basic budget issues, then defeated a modified late busing program on the budget management issue.

A "Hold the Line Budget" for 1972 will be the 1971 budget plus a 10 percent increase, Frank Hill told the school committee, as he handed out his budget definition to members and guests Tuesday night.

Main reason? the $547,000 total in professional improvement step increases which the town is already legally bound to pay to its teachers next year, plus certain inevitable maintenance costs increases.

Hill wants the public to be kept informed so they know the educational implications of budget decisions, and he wants the superintendent to carefully define the costs of each program (reading, guidance, math, etc.) in preparation for budget decisions.

Hill's budget definition indicated that the same budget in 1972 as in 1971 (salaries 5.17 million, expenses 1.25 million, a total of $6.42 million) would mean cutting

Damaged Wilmington Camp To Be Repaired

Volunteer efforts and determination by its founders will put Camp Forty Acres in Wilmington back in service to the youth of the area, after motorcyclists from an abandoned Andover gravel pit thoroughly vandalized the area over a week ago.

Foster B. Palsar of Wilmington, who is in charge of the Boy Scout camp, used also by many other youth groups of the area, including Andover, said Tuesday that he and Charles Crotty had worked over the weekend, assessing the damage and making some repairs.

Palsar, who has developed the camp as a part of his life's work and as a hobby, said that the damage to the camp and its buildings was "childish-like," in character, and appeared to be the work of young adults.

Leading to the belief that 'cyclists were responsible was the tire tracks leading to the area from the Andover pit, used by motorcyclists riding unregistered vehicles.

Interim Pastor At Church

Rev. Egbert A. Jenkinson is serving as interim pastor of Free Christian Church.

Rev. Mr. Jenkinson will serve in that capacity until a new pastor has been called. Rev. Allyn J. Bradford, former pastor of the church, completed his service the first of this month and is now serving in personal counselling with a Cambridge consultant firm.

Rev. Mr. Bradford submitted his resignation to the church in April. He is retaining his residency in Andover.

A meeting of the church planning council was scheduled Wednesday night, at which time possible reports on candidates for the pastorate were possible from the pastoral committee.

Rev. Mr. Jenkinson is pastor emeritus of First Church Congregational, Methuen, where he served for many years.

Focus On Condominiums

Condominiums will apparently hold the attention of the Oct. 4 town meeting, if Monday night's hearings before the planning board is any indication.

Over 100 persons, mostly abutters to the three condominium proposals were in attendance to hear the proponents and for the most part expressed objection.

Main points of objection were the increased effect on the school system, traffic problems and increased municipal services required for the projects.

The three proposals include a 78-unit complex on the former Curran estate on North Main street, 168 units off Dascomb road and 285 units in a development off Lowell street, near Greenwood road.

Atty. Thomas W. Tavenner, counsel for Vincent Catania, proponent of the Curran estate development, explained that the proposal calls for living within existing zoning regulations. The 17-acre development would contain 78 units containing two bedrooms and having a cost of between $42,000 and $55,000.

Atty. Tavenner felt that the development would attract retired people and few if any children. During discussion of the proposal, counsel said he felt that the development could be restricted to prohibiting children, a point argued as discriminatory by an objector.

Atty. Tavenner told the audience that the condominium plan had replaced the apartment concept of living.

Condominiums provide for ownership of the unit with maintenance of grounds and joint properties accomplished co-operatively.

Atty. Charles G. Hatch presented the Dascomb Road proposal, which is being presented by Wynwood Development Corp., which has developed single family homes in the immediate area.

In this area, the 163 units will be constructed as town houses, with the units containing six apartments in a price range of $180 to $300 monthly, with a provision to turn them into condominiums.

The 54 acres would be developed around a pond.

Density problems were discussed with regard to this area, along with the effect such a development would have on public safety services, such as the Ballardvale fire station, and schools, such as the already overcrowded South school, according to speakers.

The third proposal was presented by Benjamin Osgood of North Andover, who is presenting Prendenwood development off Lowell street.

Osgood has two articles before the planners and eventually town meeting, one proposing a bylaw to cover condominiums and another asking approval of the 57 acres off Lowell street into a cluster condominium development.

The proponent intends to take advantage of two ponds in the area which are a portion of the headwaters for Fish Brook. The cost per unit will range from $20,000 to $33,000, Osgood said, noting a need in Andover for homes in the economic range for those with incomes of $10,000 to $15,000 annually.

The planning board must make recommendations on the proposals to the town meeting which holds the ultimate decision.

Math Program Termed Success

Andover's elementary students are being oriented to the system's new individualized math program, after summer school pioneering with the Individualized Mathematics System proved a great success, in the eyes of school authorities.

All elementary students are slated to be through orientation and using the program by Oct. 1. Meanwhile, math teachers are using the slack time waiting for a last shipment of materials to teach one geometry unit which is not covered in the IMS program.

In October, a shorter orientation will precede the system's own new individualized reading program, which follows the same principles: after general placement testing, a pre-test and a post-test are given a student in each skill area, to determine what skills he needs to master, and whether he has mastered them, before proceeding to his next topic.

Mathematics coordinator Philip Dyer said he "couldn't be more pleased" with results of the summer school, where a majority of the 78 students (most of them in summer school for remedial work) successfully covered considerably more units than the average classroom covers with the usual teacher's presentation of topics to a class or group. A number of students covered three times the average number of units in the four week session.

In the individualized program, a student learns by himself through learning materials geared to his level and pace, with the teacher filling a new role, as diagnoser of problems, and prescriber of materials, individual tutor and instructor of small groups formed to meet certain needs. Manipulative materials, such as centimeter rods, number balances, etc., play a large part, giving a student an opportunity to deal with abstract concepts in a concrete situation. The schools system has purchased manipulative materials that it did not already possess, and they are now present in all elementary schools in the system. Dyer said that some students need these to conceptualize, while other students can perceptualize concepts in their minds, and still other students can think in abstract terms.

The success of the IMS program in summer school does not mean that there will be no problems of adjustment. Dyer pointed out that individualized programs call for a changed role for the teacher -- a more effective role, he is convinced, but different from the primary role a teacher filled up to now. The summer also pointed up the need for inservice workshops planned this year to provide teachers with experience and confidence in their new role as diagnosticians, prescribers and tutors of students in individualized learning programs, and to familiarize them with the system's new manipulation materials and other learning aids. There are bound to be a few adjustment problems with students, too, Dyer said, but he says an individualized system's constant evaluation of the student's skills makes it easier for the teacher to diagnose learning problems and deal with them precisely.

How about parent adjustment? The math coordinator plans to visit parent meetings at the various schools, to discuss the IMS program, and later in the year the individual schools are planning coffee-hours during school time, when parents can come in to observe the IMS program in operation.

School officials also say they welcome parents' and other citizen's questions, which may be directed to the school office, or to the TOWNSMAN, for inclusion in the new weekly column "Educational Perspectives," a forum where school officials will answer questions about the public schools and their programs.

As a basis for discussions and questions about Andover's new IMS math program, here are the stated basic assumptions of the program, developed by the Regional Educational Laboratory for the Carolinas and Virginia.

Children learn faster if they can work at their own level and at their own rate of speed.

Children learn more easily when the skills they have to master are presented as a logical sequence of small tasks.

Children find that learning can be fun, and have a better attitude toward their classroom work, when they are offered a variety of ways to learn and can exercise some direction over how they learn.

Teachers are most effective when they can work with pupils on an individual basis, or serve as a tutor to small groups of pupils.

It is easier for teachers and schools to become "accountable" for teaching children the basic fundamentals of mathematics when the curriculum is organized to frame learning objectives in terms that can be measured.

The first woman governor was Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming, who was sworn in on January 5, 1925.

To Determine Needs For School Space

A plan for future school building development may be forthcoming after Oct. 1 public school enrollment figures are determined.

Supt. of Schools, Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert informed the school committee Tuesday night, that a plan could be developed for presentation to the March town meeting, after the enrollment figures are compiled and submitted to the state. Oct. 1 registration figures are the ones supplied to the state department of education.

Dr. Seifert said that the registration this year is not expected to meet previous estimates, as matters stand at present.

In reviewing the plans which were developed last year for presentation to the 1971 town meeting, Dr. Seifert said that high and low projections had been used.

In the eventual decision of town meeting to scrap plans for an addition to the Doherty school and begin planning for an addition to the high school, he said he felt the town had lost sight of the basic plan for the school department to accommodate an anticipated enrollment increase of 125 yearly over a ten year period.

The plan as presented was to relieve immediate problems at the elementary and secondary level and give the town a four to five year spread to plan further and examine enrollment and population trends.

This, of course, was lost in the decision of town meeting.

Dr. Seifert said he felt the tenor of town meeting indicated there was a need for relief at the secondary level, but in the economy minded feeling of the meeting, planning funds were lost.

A revised plan of development and use of facilities, the superintendent felt, could better be determined after the latest enrollment figures are finalized and presented in October.

Evolvement of a plan to present to the March, 1972 town meeting can then take place, the superintendent feels.

Methuen Firm Low Bidder

N. Pandalena and Sons, Inc., Methuen was the apparent low bidder on Chapter 90 reconstruction work to be done on Andover street.

The Methuen firm submitted a proposal of $136,468.10 for the work which was estimated at $156,345 by the state Department of Public Works. Chapter 90 work is undertaken with one-half state cost and one-quarter of the funds supplied by the county and town.

Other bids received were: Methuen Construction Co., Methuen, $139,747; George Brox, Inc., Dracut, $146,521; R & J Salvucci Corp., Waltham, $147,486; Midway Excavators, Hampton, N. H., $147,886; Hanover Contracting Co., Malden, $153,900.

Doors were smashed in by kicking them with boots about size ten or 12, he said.

Windows were smashed along with the styling or supports that hold the glass. Tar paper and boards were ripped off the roofs of A-Frame type buildings used for the camp.

Over the weekend Balsar and Crotty worked on the smashed water lines leading to the camp.

Since publicity surrounding the vandalism, several groups have volunteered to assist in rehabilitating the camp area. Andover groups such as Camp Fire girls who have used the area for their activities.

A Malden professional painter has volunteered his efforts to work there this weekend.

The camp, licensed to accommodate 150, has been in operation for over 30 years. It is open to all youth groups in the general area, who must register and obtain keys and necessary equipment from Balsar.

The entrance to the camp is off Woburn street in Andover.

Balsar praised Andover police for their efforts in checking the camp area from time to time and for assistance when requested.

The damage caused, has served to amplify the efforts of those who use the area with volunteer assistance and financial aid forthcoming to assist in rehabilitation to continue the opportunities for youth, particularly Boy Scout, Girl Scout and Camp Fire Girls groups.

Balsar feels that the winter programs planned for the area will be able to be conducted through the pledged efforts.

Thomas P. Christopher will continue to operate a school bus route through to the termination of his contract.

Christopher had informed the school committee at its Sept. 7 meeting that he would like to terminate the contract, which had posed problems for the school department in seeking a replacement in view of the current federal regulation on wages and prices.

Christopher, in a letter to the committee, Tuesday night, said that he would continue to operate his route through his contract period which will end next year.

The Bill of Rights was submitted to the states on Sept. 25, 1789.

Evening Study Program Begins Monday

One adults-only program not rated X is the Andover Evening Study Program, which Monday will begin its 35th year of presenting weekly courses to Andover area men and women on the Phillips Academy campus.

Registration is still open, but latecomers must register immediately to take advantage of the course offerings. To keep costs within the range of all, the lectures and instructors, mostly Phillips Academy teachers, serve without pay, whether they are teaching sculpture or scuba diving, James Joyce or elementary Russian, celestial navigation or flower arranging.

Director Jerry Foster points out that hundreds of people each year, have rediscovered old interests, gained new ones, enlarged their outlooks, made new friends and increased their capacity to enjoy fine things, and prepared themselves to meet responsibilities through the Andover Evening Study Program.

The variety of courses cover our American past, areas of crisis in the world today, music, literature, art, religion, science, ideas, men, practical information, sports and hobbies.

Several courses could well be labelled public service courses in themselves. The PA Spanish department's course in practical Spanish conversation and comprehension has helped nurses, policemen, receptionists, merchants, social workers and others who find it valuable in their work with the increasing number of Spanish-speaking in our area. Another is the Field and Track Workshop/Seminar, led by Phillips Academy and Andover High track coaches Steve Sorota and Dick Collins and their staffs; this seminar aimed especially at junior high and other teachers who are taking on field and track coaching assignments.

Most popular course last year was Creative Problem Solving, taught by former Pike headmaster William Harding and Dr. Jablonski, and the Wednesday night Film Series always draws a large crowd. Foster said that the Evening Study Program will continue its popular scuba diving and recreational squash courses, but has phased out the exercise and general physical education courses since the Andover public schools have recently opened up their schools for more programs of this kind, that extend further through the year. The Andover Evening Study program now concentrates more on academic and cultural courses, or practical and informational ones, which are not easily available elsewhere in the community.

The first classes, beginning Monday, Sept. 27, and meeting weekly through November 11, are Fantasy in Literature; Sculpture; James Joyce; Research Problems in the Archaeology of Mexico, taught by Edward Sisson of the Peabody Archaeological Museum, fresh from a Mexican dig; recreational Squash and Ancient History.

Tuesday evening's courses will be Basic Skin and Scuba; Celestial Navigation; Colonial Massachusetts, a study of Colonial towns in our area; Creative Problem Solving; Introduction to Opera, and Poetry Workshop.

The Wednesday courses will include Philosophy of Leisure; the Identity Crisis of Richard III; Film Series; Small Boat Handling, and Flower Arranging.

Thursday night's offerings are Theatre Workshop, Track and Field Workshop, Humor in Horror, elementary and intermediate Russian, Film Seminar (discussing Wednesday night's films); Electronic computers and computing, the practical Spanish course, at the elementary and intermediate levels, Great Symphonic Music, Americans in Eastern Asia and Recreational Squash.

Foster points out that Evening Study applications are available at the town libraries, or at the Summer Session Office, at Phillips Academy, where the Evening Study Program has its headquarters.

Men and women interested in attending one or more of the evening study programs should call the Phillips Academy Evening Study Program

Warrior Booters In 1-1 Tie

By Brian J. Sullivan

At the last minute of the fourth quarter, the Andover Golden Warriors salvaged a 1 - 1 tie with the Methuen High Rangers, Tuesday at the Methuen field. The last minute heroics were provided by Scott Stevenson who forced the ball loose from a crease scramble and nudged it home with 13 seconds remaining. The last minute was to be the only highlight of the game for Andover.

From the opening whistle, Andover held the territorial edge. Ken Marvin, Andover Co-Captain, lead the Warrior attack with some quick, accurate passing from his center forward position. But the Andover attack lacked enthusiasm and was quite disorganized in that the forwards didn't act with authority when in possession of the ball.

Early in the period, in fact within the first two minutes, the Warriors were awarded a penalty kick but the ball sailed over the crossbar. One of many "beautiful" opportunities lost.

Three times in the first period, Andover was awarded cornerkicks.

Three times Marvin lofted the ball in front of the goal, and three times Andover misfired. Twice the ball was kicked directly into the feet of a defender and the other time was headed, chest-high, into the hands of the goal-tender John Gallagher, who played a very fine game in the nets.

Along with Gallagher, the Rangers' defense was bolstered considerably by the determination and hustle of Methuen Co-Captain Jose Medeiros. His strong position play and fine ball handling got his team out of many a tight spot. In fact it was he who scored the Ranger goal.

With two minutes left, Jose fed the ball to Pete Wade, breaking down the left wing. Wade quickly got control and raced for the goal. Warrior fullback Dave Clarke caught him in the penalty area and nudged him off the ball. Wade fell and a penalty kick was awarded to Methuen -- the call was pushing off.

Warrior Coach, Keng Jen Lee, trotted downfield to protest the call, arguing that it should be an indirect kick. However, he was not in time, and the play took place. Jose booted the ball into the lower right-hand corner to make the score 0-1, Methuen. When Coach Lee finally did get the referee's attention, he was overruled. Time of the goal 13:15.

The second period was even worse. Once again the Warriors outplayed the Rangers. But every time it was either one pass too many, wasting time, or just booting the ball past an open goal. No matter how you look at it, the second period amounts to this: 1) The Warriors were out-hustled; 2) They didn't play heads-up ball, spilling at least a dozen sure chances; and 3) the forwards were not aggressively attacking the ball or aggressively playing their positions. To make matters worse, the referees, notably Referee Jack Miller, were quick to chastize the Warriors. The most noteworthy incident was that involving the ejection of Ken Marvin. Miller issued a warning, telling Marvin to remain quiet concerning his interpretation of Miller's calls. Marvin promptly said something to a teammate and was promptly expelled.

Methuen began to even out the territorial edge, once held by Andover, but the Warriors were still in control, largely due to the efforts of Scott Smith and Bob Holmes. But the same situation prevailed throughout the second half, and to describe the half would be to repeat.

In the last minute, Andover feeling very discouraged and embarrassed with their sub-par performance, sparked to life, more or less out of desperation. With 30 seconds left, Methuen kicked the ball out of bounds. Warrior Tom Boshar raced downfield to throw the ball back into play. The ball bounced off a Methuen player and Boshar kicked it back -- into the crease. Gallagher caught, but dropped the ball and fell to the ground. The ball became involved in a scramble. Then David Vivian kicked it loose to Stevenson who booted the ball through the maze into the goal to tie the game with 13 seconds remaining.

The Andover boosters indeed made a poor showing Tuesday, there is no use saying they didn't. But perhaps that's good, because a lot of big games are coming soon and maybe this game will help them to shape up. You can be sure the team is embarrassed by the Methuen game and will be out to redeem themselves on Thursday at home. Game time 3:30 p.m. Wrap Up

The tie at Methuen makes the Warriors record 1-0-1 on the season. Last Thursday they traveled to Danvers and won 3-1. Two goals were scored on cornerkick head-ins. Scott Smith, Andover Co-Captain and Peck got the goals. Danvers scored, then Andover followed with its third goal. They were awarded another cornerkick. Ken Marvin kicked it off the head of an opponent and into the goal.

How To Deal With Tailgaters

It is sheer foolishness to say to "any driver who hits me from behind is guilty." An attitude like that can literally break your neck.

There are three measures you can take to avoid being "rear-ended" by a tailgater.

1. Signal your intentions: Use your directional signals, brake lights and arm signals.
2. For your own sake, do not stop abruptly. If you follow the rules of avoiding collision with the vehicle ahead of you, you will at the same time prevent collision from behind.
3. Keep clear of tailgaters. Don't let a tailgater rile you. Shake him by slowing down gently. This will permit him to pass you (which is probably what he has in mind anyway).

Even if he cannot pass you, the slower speed will make it easier for him to stop quickly. Also, the brake lights may wake up and alert a tailgater who may be too close unconsciously.

Yom Kippur Observance At Temple

Temple Emanuel serving the Jewish community of the Greater Lawrence area will be joining fellow Jews throughout the world in the observance of Yom Kippur
Day. This festival which begins on the preceding evening, Tuesday, Sept. 28, is the most awesome day of the Jewish calendar.

The feeling of Yom Kippur is not one of mourning, but rather one of seriousness. More a legal formula than a prayer, it expresses the idea that man's plans and promises, no matter how earnest, cannot always be fulfilled. In the coming year - as in the past year - promises made to God and to the worshipper himself may be wiped clean from the slate.

The Hebrew word chet is usually translated in English as "sin."
This, however, is not a translation which carries the message of the Hebrew. Chet has its origins in archery, and the term is used to indicate "missing the mark." Such is the Jewish concept of sin - the missing of one's goal, losing sight of the important things in life.
Among those spelled out for the congregation are sinning through word of mouth, abuse of power, disrespect for parents and teachings, exploitation of one's neighbor.

The most poignant moment of the day comes in the Ne-ilah Service, the very last moments of Yom Kippur as the sun's shadow covers more and more of the earth.
Then, as if in a final reminder, the great call of the shofar is sounded, and the Yamin Noraim come to a close.

The services at Temple Emanuel at 483 Lowell St., Lawrence will begin with Kol Nidre on Tuesday at 7 p.m. Yom Kippur Day services will commence at 9 a.m. and continue until early afternoon. Afternoon services will begin at 4 p.m.
with a special reading by Thayer Warshaw and Carl Caplan of a one-act play written by Wolf Mankowitz entitled, "It Should Happen To A Dog." The theme of this play concerns the prophet Jonah whose Biblical book is read as part of the afternoon service.
The closing portion of the Yom
Kippur Day, Ne-ilah will begin at 5 p.m.

Throughout the festival the services will be conducted by the Temple rabbi, Rabbi Harry A.
Roth, together with Cantor Irving
Shuman and the Temple choir.

Mainly For Men

The library has completed a brochure for business men (and interested women) which lists specific magazines, newspapers, and reference books in the library of interest to them. Managing even a small business is difficult these days, and the staff at the library is eager to help meet the problems that develop in marketing and finance, in administration, and in sales. The Moody's market series is complete; Value Line with its daily news on stocks is always popular, and as aids in keeping up with state and national legislation the library subscribes to Congressional Quarterly, The Congressional Record, and Massachusetts Legislative Service. All reference books are conveniently located behind the Reference Desk, and there is a special table just for those persons using the business materials in the same area.

New Art

We are fortunate to have a special exhibit of paintings done by a young Andover woman, Mrs. Caroline West. If you like new, modern art, you will enjoy these stark acrylic works. A graduate of Colby Junior College, Mrs. West studies with George Dergalis of Wayland. She lives at 49 Whittier Street with her husband, Robert, and their four children. Mrs. West has exhibited with the Copley Society in Boston, The Lexington Arts and Crafts Society, the Cambridge Art Association, and the Andover Artists Guild. Her paintings are available for purchase by contacting the artist.

Children's Room

The Children's Room at Memorial Hall this week highlights National Geographic - the how, who, and why to what's where in the world. As an example of the varied formats of National Geographic publications, the Children's Room case holds film-strips, records, and boxed pamphlets, along with an explanation of methods of access to the materials at Memorial Hall. Of special interest are the large filmstrip/record kits available through the audio-visual department and the newly-bound collection of individual articles from all issues of the last five years. The latter collection, boxed by geographical area rather than date of issue, makes it possible for a patron to easily find all materials published by the magazine on a particular topic during 1966-1970, and then to borrow only the single articles that will be of most help in his research. Housed in the Children's Room, the article collection may,

Coming Events

Last week mention was made of the coming Civilization Series to be sponsored by the library, beginning on Nov. 2. There will be other exciting events this fall. We are in the process of planning a series of Author Evenings, with eminent new writers coming to speak to us. There is some buzzing about a Fashion Show in Novem-

Ever find a day when the world looked willow-wise and the sky was a little bit melon-y? Share your flights of fancy with others at Imagine/Enigami, the poetry workshop for children from third grade and older, beginning Oct. 2 at 10 a.m., and continuing for six alternate weeks. PRESENTATION. Elisa and Anna Kline, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kline, presented a remembrance to Mrs. Donald Spicer, president-general of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution during the state DAR conference held at the Sheraton Rolling Green Motor Inn last Friday. The all-day conference was hosted by the Priscilla Abbot Chapter of Andover, and the Betsy Ross Chapter of Lawrence.

Three Named Semi-Finalists

Principal Phillip Wormwood has announced that three students at Andover High have been named Semifinalists in the 1971-72 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The students are Sarah Bragdon, David Campbell and Betsy Longendorfer.

The approximately 15,000 Semifinalists appointed are among the nation's most intellectually talented high school seniors. They will compete for some 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1972.

The semifinalists were the highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST), which was given last February to more than 655,000 students in about 16,600 schools nationwide. They constitute less than one percent of the graduating secondary school seniors in the United States.

The semifinalists are representative of the country's most intellectually able young people, according to Edward C. Smith, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC). "From this group will come many future leaders in business, industry, and the professions," he said.

"These students bring honor not only to themselves, but also to their families, their teachers, and their communities. The future success of these young people will, however, depend upon their ability to become productive at the high intellectual levels that they are capable of attaining."

Semifinalists must advance to finalist standing to be considered for the Merit Scholarships to be awarded next spring. Semifinalists become finalists by receiving the endorsement of their schools, substantiating their high NMQST performance on a second examination, and providing information about their achievements and interests.

About 96 percent of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists, and each will be considered for one of the 1,000 National Merit $1000 Scholarships which are allocated by state.

Increased Enrollment At Pike

The Pike School, an elementary and junior high co-educational independent day school in Andover, opened the 1971-1972 school year under the direction of a new headmaster, Raymond A. Nelson.

Mr. Nelson succeeds William H. Harding who had served Pike for 15 years as headmaster and who had seen the school settled on its 30 acre campus in 1963.

Mr. Nelson indicated that more new families, 54, were sending children to Pike this year than ever before and that the school's enrollment on opening day totaled 340 students. Enrollment at some grade levels had been closed during the late summer.

Mr. Nelson stated that the school will continue its tradition of a vigorous academic program for students of average and above-average ability together with a full athletic program and increased emphasis on its arts program in the school. He expressed great satisfaction in the appointment of seven additions to The Pike School faculty over the months of late spring and summer.

The new faculty in order of appointment are:

Miss Nancy Regan, who will teach literature and history at the seventh and eighth grade levels. Miss Regan holds a bachelor's degree from Randolph-Macon Woman's College and was more recently a member of the faculty at Chatham Hall, a girls boarding school in Virginia. Her fiancé is a member of the faculty at Prooks School.

Mrs. John Funk, who will teach mathematics in the middle school, holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania and studied under a cooperative program at Wellesley College. She has traveled widely in the Middle East and in Europe. While in the Middle East, she was a member of the faculty of International College in Beirut, Lebanon.

Mrs. John Cioffi, whose husband is a member of The Pike School Science Department, joins the school in the French Department. Mrs. Cioffi is the daughter of the President of Colby Junior College. She is a graduate of Colby College and has studied both the French language and fine arts in France. She was most recently a member of the faculty of the Brimmer and May School.

Mr. William Buehner, whose father preceded him on The Pike School faculty several years ago, has been appointed to teach French for the coming year. Mr. Buehner is an honor graduate of Northeastern University with a major in French and expects to assist in the athletic department as well.

Spurgeon (Spud) Wentzell has been named as coordinator of the school's athletic program. Mr. Wentzell, who is a gymnast and varsity basketball coach, holds his Bachelor of Science and Master's degree in physical education from Springfield College. His master's thesis was on movement exploration for elementary school children. Mr. Wentzell was Acting Director of Athletics at Parish Hill High School, Chaplin, Conn. before his appointment to the Pike faculty.

In addition to those faculty who coach, Mr. Wentzell will work with two full time athletic staff members. Miss Cynthia Root, a recent graduate of Grinnell College and number two ranking women's badminton player in the United States and a member of the Uber Cup Team which plays international badminton competition. Miss Root is also a highly regarded tennis player and was the captain of her college field hockey team. Her colleague is to be Mrs.

Thomas Regan, the wife of a faculty member at Phillips Academy and a graduate of Connecticut College. She participated on the varsity field hockey team during her undergraduate years at college. Mrs. Regan teaches tennis at the Y.W.C.A. and is the mother of two boys.

After four days of September faculty meetings, The Pike School opened on Wednesday, Sept. 15, looking forward to the new school year.

A father explains the facts of life

"This is the time of the year when fathers sit down and have heart-to-heart talks with their sons."

"Son, now that you have graduated your mother feels I would not be fulfilling my duties as a father if I did not explain certain facts about life to you."

"Yes, dad."

"First I would like to show you a few things that you will have to deal with in the outside world. For example, this item is called a necktie."

"What do you do with it?"

"You tie it around your neck like this and wear it with a shirt."

"What for?"

"Nobody is quite sure. But when you go out into the cold world people will expect you to wear one. It's the establishment's answer to the peace symbol."

"It sure looks funny. What else, dad?"

"This, my boy, is a suit — what are you laughing at?"

"The jacket matches the pants. Hey, that's really crazy."

"Yes, the jacket does match the pants, and you will be expected to wear them together during the daytime."

"But the pants have a crease in the front. What's that for?"

"I'm not certain of its purpose, but now that you are an adult, you will be expected to keep a crease in your pants. Perhaps I should have explained these things to you before, but I didn't want to ruin your school days. Yet what I am telling you now will have a great effect on everything you do."

"Sorry dad, but you have to admit wearing a tie and a jacket that matches the pants — what do you call it — a suit — is a pretty funny idea."

"Can we proceed? These queer looking leather things are called shoes. Do you have any idea what they're used for?"

"Beats me."

"You put them on your feet to protect them from sharp objects."

"I don't want to wear anything like that, dad. I'll take my chances."

"I don't know how to break it to you, son, but most places require grownups to wear shoes."

"Look dad, if you want me to, I will wear a necktie, and I'll even go along with the jacket and matching pants with a crease in them, but I'm not going to put those stupid leather things on my feet."

"Shoes, son, shoes. Believe me, you'll get used to them. After awhile you might even get to like them and keep them polished."

"You mean you have to polish them, too?"

"You don't have to, but they look better that way and last longer. Here, put on these socks and then..."

"What are socks?"

"You wear them under the shoes so the leather won't rub your feet."

"I thought the shoes were supposed to protect your feet."

"Provided you wear socks. Son, please don't make this too difficult for me. I'm not very good at explaining the facts of life but believe me, I've been telling you the truth."

"I'm sorry dad, it's just that you've thrown all this stuff at me at one time, and it comes as a shock."

"Perhaps we've talked enough for one day. Tomorrow I'd like to tell you about a thing called a razor."

"Razor? That's a funny word."

out whole programs. The 1971 budget plus 6 percent would mean program redefinitions and curtailments, since the increase is not enough to cover the step increases alone. The educational implications of a 1972 budget of 1971 plus 8.5 percent would be "current status marginal."

The 1971 budget plus 10 percent would come to a total of $7.07 million (salary - $5.69m; expenses - $1.38m) which would give the Andover system its educational status quo without expansion or addition of current programs, according to Hill's analysis.

Superintendent Seifert found Hill's request for program costs definition reasonable; pled for protection of the budget from cutting of budget categories, which are composites of expenses from various programs (i.e. teaching materials contains materials for the reading program, the social studies program, etc.) since this disrupts the entire budget process. When cuts need to be made, Seifert wants them made from programs, or programs abolished, representing real decisions made on a priority basis, rather than cutting amounts from "line" or category items without knowing how, or how many, programs will be affected by the cut.

The budget management issue warmed up shortly, when Frank Griggs asked for a modified late busing program for the rest of the year, on Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays. He moved that the requisite $1600 be funded within the current budget year; He contended that the service could be provided, by taking money from the Principals Needs category of the budget, which has $20,000 remaining. "Surely at this time of the year, we ought to be able to find $1600 in the budget to provide this service."

The superintendent had already given the list of unexpected expenses that had come up since the budget had been adopted - smoke indicators installed according to state fire regulations for $3,200; $2,100 when lightning struck Bancroft, boiler trouble for $1,500, heating controls repair at West Jr. High for $1,200 and $3,000 extra in painting. He said these much more than compensated for a savings of $2,500 the school had effected on scheduling, and had to be paid.

Committeeman Frank Hill and Dr. Richard Katz opposed Hill's motion to cut from the 1971 budget at this point on budget management principles. Both said they had always voted for late busing and would do so again the next budget year; that the late busing had been the most expensive busing expenditure they could cut and they had had to cut it after town meeting. Hill called the budget management principle critical. "If the budget doesn't mean anything, why make a budget?" Seifert will bring the "Principals' Needs" budget category items into the next meeting, to indicate to Griggs the composition of the total figure Griggs felt could be cut, but Chairman William King said the motion must be disposed of, and Hill and Katz defeated Griggs' motion 2-1. There is an edge to the atmosphere at school committee meetings nowadays, with good humour welcome, but spotty, and tempers rather near the surface.

A young man who came to the table to speak also deplored the loss of late buses, but would not give his name to the press.

20,000 German troops once surrendered to an American photographer, armed only with his camera.

Office Renovation Debated

Dr. Seifert asked the school committee to consider a more permanent renovation of Stowe School for the central administrative offices, which he said had been estimated as a $90,000 job. He said this would be in place of the budgeted $18,000 job which was to have been done, but which the administration had held back on, on the theory that present economics meant that Stowe was not just a stop-gap home for the administration, but would be home for 20-30 years.

The schoolmen were sympathetic to the importance of housing all the directors in the central administrative offices, but Dr. Frank Griggs asked the superintendent to get figures on the other alternatives - long term rental of suitable facilities, or construction of a new facility to serve the administration. "After all, after you spend the $90,000, it's still going to be an old building; let's find out whether that's the best way to do it."

He pointed out that rental would include utilities, while the old building's renovation would still leave maintenance and utilities to be paid.

Worth The Wait

The townspeople may well have done themselves a service this year at the annual town meeting.

In rejecting a new school addition for the Doherty complex, the underlying theme seemed to be a cry for economy. While, such is always a welcome attitude, penny-wise and pound foolish action often proves disastrous.

As matters appear to be turning out, however, the action seems to have been a wise move. In a sense, the decision to reject the school addition to meet immediate elementary school enrollment needs, provided something for which a price tag can not be placed — time.

In the intervening weeks since town meeting, enrollment increase patterns have developed which show that the essential need for additional space appears to be on the secondary level in Andover.

Naturally, one can argue that the town also rejected planning for secondary expansion in March. Too, it can be argued, once again, time was given for proper evaluation of the town's needs.

As the school administration reassesses its building needs, many factors begin to appear, most notably that Andover's public school population at the secondary level is in the expanding range, while the elementary needs would seem to be lessening.

How soon expansion of present facilities will be needed of course, is really conjecture.

All sorts of figures can be used to support or reject new construction proposals. Fluctuating conditions can be employed, etc. There really is no hard and fast rule to follow in judging a community's school building needs.

Indicators, however, sometime prove more beneficial, and all indications currently point toward increased utilization of existing space, with possible construction of expanded secondary facilities needed.

If such is the case, then the town meeting vote for rejection of the elementary addition was proper.

At the moment, Dr. Frank Griggs, self-confessed maverick, who started his term on the school committee by opposing the addition and seeking attention to high and junior high facilities, looks good.

It is doubtful that the day of new school construction, for Andover has ended, however.

But, in March, a restless populace asked for time and a little breather for evaluation of needs.

This has been provided and has proved, we think to have been quite worth while.

A Help

The League of Women Voters provided local officials with some good information during their annual fall luncheon last week, at which time the subject of town meetings was discussed.

Andover currently has a group studying its town meeting form of government.

Among the considerations is the representative form of government, a subject debated from time to time by study groups and officials of the town.

At the league's meeting, some knowledgeable people presented their thoughts on town meetings in general and the representative form in particular.

It should prove worthwhile to the local study group.

The meeting provided an excellent vehicle for those studying Andover's system — an evaluation from a broader viewpoint.

The present system, it would seem, needs some revamping, if the town's business is to be conducted to the benefit of the majority of the residents.

There are pros and cons relative to a representative form of town meeting, which, no doubt, the study group has been considering.

The information gained from the league session, with the additional meeting with the speakers anticipated, should prove beneficial in reaching some conclusions.

While town meeting is typically New England and the truest form of Democracy, it has at times grown unwieldy.

The information gained by study group members at the league meeting, in company with many of the town's official family, should provide some assistance in determining a future course for town affairs.

Apathy

The teen center which operated rather productively last year in the old fire station, seems to be suffering from youthful apathy, following a search for a new home.

This is unfortunate after the work of many young people to find a meeting place, since they had no place to go and nothing to do.

There have been efforts put forth by some to produce an efficient teen center. These young people have been having their efforts thwarted by those who apparently either don't want to participate, or are waiting for others to produce a place to gather.

Ample evidence of idle hands can be found almost nightly in Elm Square, at "The Wall," and elsewhere in that general area.

Would that their idle hours be put to better use, maybe a teen center could be produced or at least some other singular or collective accomplishment be realized.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

With Andover public schools now open again, statistics are beginning to appear regarding increased enrollments and anticipated increasing operating costs and facility requirements. In this regard, I was very much interested in an article which appeared on the front page of the Wall Street Journal on September 14, 1971, on the subject of "year-round schools."

The article stated that there are presently about 100 school districts in the country with some form of all-year programs and that the number is increasing rapidly with approximately 1,000 other districts now studying the feasibility of such an approach. The article indicated that taxpayers are growing increasingly more reluctant to pass bond issues for new school construction when by operating on a 12-month basis approximately one-fourth to one-third more use could be made of existing facilities.

The types of different year-round programs are apparently quite varied, but the two most popular ones are as follows:

1. "45 - 15 Plan"
Students are divided into 4 groups, each of which attends school for 9 week periods followed by 3 week vacations (i. e. 3 of the groups are in attendance at any one time while 1 is on vacation).

2. "4 - 12 Plan"
Students are divided into 4 groups, each of which attends 3 of the 4 twelve week quarters while 1 of the groups is on vacation in each quarter.

The article goes on to say that many teachers are enthusiastic about year-round operations because of the opportunity for 12 month employment while, at the same time, allowing them flexible vacation options. Some teachers have experienced substantial pay boosts as a result of their election to work 12 months a year.

The final argument for year-round school use is that the traditional glut of teen-agers on the summer employment market is moderated and correspondingly vandalism and crime are reduced.

Although all of us tend to some extent to resent change, it appears that a year-round school program in Andover could be very beneficial and could substantially reduce real estate taxes. Perhaps a study committee should be appointed to look into this matter.

Editor's Note: The school committee has recently appointed a committee to study the extended school year program. Reports from this group are due in early 1972.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:
This week's TOWNSMAN (Sept. 16) has an article about the destruction at the Wilmington Foy Scout camp. I don't know what the proper way would be to go about apprehending the ones who did the damage, nor how to make sure that it won't happen again. Those are things that should be undertaken by the proper authorities, whether or not some private citizen complains officially.

On the other hand, I am firmly convinced of the value of the Boy Scout program, and would like to see it continued. The article states that the camp is not repairable, or something of that nature. May I suggest that the TOWNSMAN become a vehicle for a fund drive (and perhaps a volunteer drive for materials and/or labor) to put the camp back in usable condition? My check as a starting point (though small) is enclosed. Whether or not you choose to use it for a campaign, please forward it to the scouts for me. Thank you.

Wendell Clapp
269 South Main St.

Editor's Note: The check is being forwarded to Foster Balsar who has charge of the Wilmington Camp. Anyone wishing to assist in this project in a similar manner may forward donations to the Townsman office and they will be presented to Mr. Balsar.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

On Monday, October 4, the voters of Andover will have an opportunity to directly participate in their town government at the Special Town Meeting. Important decisions will have to be made about what kinds of housing Andover is willing to provide and support; does the town need a zoning by-law for cluster condominiums?

Townspeople truly interested in their community will become informed about the warrant articles before they vote. Members of town boards, the selectmen and town manager will participate in a public meeting of questions and answers on Thursday, September 23, at the Doherty School, 7:45 p.m. Careful deliberation and constructive dialogue before Town Meeting can save time and money. All town voters are invited and encouraged to attend.

Jan Scheerer, President,
League of Women Voters

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

As IRS and Raytheon attract more traffic to and along Lowell Street, another hazard has appeared; it is a flood light on private property. It is blinding to car drivers.

Starting at Lovejoy Road while moving west, this new source of danger is in an area of uncontrolled pedestrian traffic. During the winter months now coming on when it is dark from 4:15 p.m. to nearly 8 a.m. matters will be worse.

It is hoped the Selectmen will prevail upon the operator of this light to shield it so as to remove this hazard both to foot and vehicular movement in this place of growing congestion. Such a shield would not detract from the light's purpose of illuminating the private property upon which it functions.

Incidentally, going south on Route 93 and just before Route 128 in Reading a similar hazard from the parking space on private property was recently removed by redirection of the powerful lamp's rays.

Some local residents were a bit apprehensive over the weekend upon receipt of sketchy information concerning a fire which destroyed a junior high building in Weymouth.

The similarity of the burned structure with Andover was striking if radio information was received only partially.

It was the east junior high building and recently renovated, all of which added up quite well with the local structure.

Fortunately, it was not Andover's problem, however.

A new and effective manner of having the yard cleaned up has been devised by some enterprising local youngsters.

Informed that no after-school activities, such as backyard football or soccer, would be allowed until the lawn was mowed, a local young mother was surprised to see a few lawnmowers descending on her property.

Seems the young man had sectioned off the yard for prospective sporting participants to groom and making the project more sporting by conducting races to see what section could be done quickest.

Last reports indicate the yard attractively cared for and athletic activity in full swing.

While the area still awaits the annual burst of Autumn color, some people must think of the festive holidays not too far distant.

From the Bon Secours weekly news bulletin comes word that those in charge of the feeding process there have already ordered the turkeys for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner.

A little information about those so-called "Barr Bills."

While their numismatic value is still a question the one dollar bills signed by Joseph W. Barr are now being sought through collector's publications.

Barr was secretary of the treasury for 30 days, from Dec. 21, 1968 to Jan. 20, 1969. He filled in between the Johnson and Nixon administration, during which his signature was affixed to 453,880,000 one dollar bills.

His name appears on one dollar bills only.

Low serial numbers are among the factors considered in demand and price.

The home of William Schnurbusch of Madison, Wisconsin, is straight out of the 19th Century — almost.

It has no electricity, is heated by a pot-bellied cast iron stove and one section of the frame cottage is dominated by a turn-of-the-century brass bedstead. But then the almost comes in.

William Schnurbusch now has a recently-installed telephone, the first he's ever had in his 83-year lifetime.

But it wasn't easy, nothing like an ordinary installation.

"The order came through like any other," says Jerry Klahn, a Wisconsin Bell installation foreman. "Put when the men got out there to put the set in there was no way to install it because there'd never been phone service in the house and we couldn't take it in on a power line because Mr. Schnurbusch doesn't have electricity."

Alternatives were considered — either putting in a pole or burying the wire.

"It turned out that burying the 700 feet of wire from the road was the most economical way to do it," Jerry adds, "and it sure was worth the extra effort. Mr. Schnurbusch is one of our most satisfied customers."

A "quarter" is called "2 bits" because the original "dollar" was crimped so that it could be broken into 8 "bits."

Andover's Educational Perspective

One budget characteristic that has serious implications is the carry-over cost from one year to the next, particularly in regard to salaries. Although the fiscal year for all town budgets is at present January to January, salary contracts in the Andover schools run from April to April for non-instructional personnel, July to July for administrators, and September to September for teachers.

This means that salary increases granted at the annual town meeting are built in for the following year. If, in that year another increase is granted, it would seem that there is a double increase because the two apparently overlap. For example, a teacher making $7500 from September 1970-71 receives an increase of $500 so that from September 1971-72 he receives $8000. Approximately $190 of that increase comes from the 1971 budget, the remainder from the 1972.

However, any further increase voted at the March 1972 town meeting will not go into effect for teachers until September, for administrators until July, for non-instructional personnel until April, at which time the previous year's contract will have expired. Thus no one receives two increases in any given year.

Much of this confusion will be eliminated in 1973 if the school year, July to July, and the fiscal (budget) year will be made to coincide. Until then the schools must operate from January to March on a tentative budget, not yet approved by town meeting. The necessity for curtailing expenditures during that period each year has a significant impact on the total school program.

Down The Years

75 Years Ago - September, 1896

Contrary to rumors, the Marland Mills has no plans to shut down. Orders placed there are sufficient to maintain good employment. The mills will be shut down for the weekend only, for inventory and normal repairs.

W. H. Higgins will close out the season on some fine horses which have been used around town this summer. Also on sale will be carriages which have also been used.

Owing to the taking down of the old engine at the electric light station, the street lights have not been turned on until later in the evening this week.

Workmen are engaged in the installation of the sewer on Essex street from Memorial Hall to the Baptist church.

While digging in the banking beside his house on Essex street, W. F. Trulan unearthed a fine stone axe. It is of good size and in good condition.

Exchange Students Enjoy Their Andover Environs

"From the middle of the spoon" and "from the middle of the sandwich" is the way two pretty young exchange students at Andover High describe where they come from.

Bente Bakke of Norway says Vagamo, her native mountain village is in the middle of her spoon-shaped homeland, and Patricia Quesada of Costa Rica explains her country is the "cream filling" between Nicaragua and Panama in Central America and "the most democratic country" south of the border.

Here on American Field Service scholarships, both "feel at home already." Lively Norwegian lass, Bente Bakke, age 17, describes her section of Norway as chiefly agricultural until recent years when some industrialization is taking place. Her father, an engineer, works in a power plant that also manufactures roof tiles quarried from the mountains. These same mountains also offer a long winter of cross country skiing -- one of Bente's favorite sports. She is the oldest of four (at home are two sisters; Tone, age 13; Asta, age 8; brother Jan Harald, age 9).

Bouncy Patricia Quesada, age 16, comes from Costa Rica's bustling capital city, San Jose, and is the youngest of five children. A sister and a brother were American Field Service scholars in the United States, too, so she's following a family tradition. Her brother is currently at the University of Colorado, working on his doctorate in engineering.

There are about 2700 foreign students under the A.F.S. Program in the country this year.

The girls arrived in the United States in August with a group, who after a three-day orientation course at C. W. Post College in Long Island, departed to join host families in cities and towns all over the nation. Both claim they've been too busy to be homesick, though Bente admits "perhaps a little bit" when she saw The Song of Norway film with its breathtaking scenery of her native mountains, lakes and fjords.

Bente had "a beautiful time" at Crystal Lake, Michigan, with her host family, and Patricia vacationed with hers in picturesque Maine and N.H., so both are already seeing America. As to their impressions of America, Bente laughs, "hot dogs, hamburgers, and big cars!" Patricia "loves MacDonald's" which she says is popular in Costa Rica, too, along with Kentucky fried chicken!

They're looking forward to polishing their already fluent English at Andover High while carrying a full load of senior academic subjects. One difference both girls notice is the smaller number of subjects U.S. students take in high school (six or seven versus ten or eleven in their countries) but Bente comments reflectively, "perhaps they go into them more deeply here."

Both girls love athletics -- Bente being a competitive swimmer in Norway, and both she and Patricia are past members of their schools' basketball teams. Bente, from a small co-educational boarding school of about 500 students in Norway, finds Andover High School somewhat big and bewildering, but Patricia says it's just about the same in size and bustle as the public high school she attends in San Jose. Bente plays the alto horn, and Patricia admits blushing to being something of a poet.

Being selected as an A.F.S. scholarship student was a long process for both of them and involved numerous meetings, discussions, as well as interviews with teachers and government personnel. These vivacious and charming young ladies are proof that the A.F.S. has chosen well.

About 1500 Americans will be studying abroad this year under the A.F.S. program, and, coincidentally, a boy from Connecticut will be attending the same boarding school in Norway that Bente goes to. All of the A.F.S. students will be finding out that "people are just people" everywhere, as Bente Bakke says, and the world just might be a little bit better because of it.

Bente's host family for the year are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sagaser of 56 Chestnut St., and their six children: Nancy, a junior at Andover High, Cathy in eighth grade at East Jr. High, and John in fifth grade and Diane in kindergarten at Doherty School -- and Linda and David, students at Brown University in Providence, R.I. Patricia belongs to another big, happy family here in U.S.A. --

(Appraisal)

Do you know the ways real estate is appraised?

There are several methods. Appraisal by capitalization is to estimate the value of property by the amount of productivity and income derived from it. Farms, rental property or business real estate are prime examples.

Appraisal by comparison is another method used to determine value. The sales price of a similar piece of property in a given area may determine its worth.

An appraisal by summation is often used when there are many parts to a property. The individual parts are first appraised separately. All added together make up the value of the total amount involved.

The market value of real estate is reached by how much a buyer will pay and at what price an owner will sell.

Appraisals are just another service that your Realtor offers.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR TASTE

The only way to learn about wines is to taste them, and there is no substitute for pulling the cork. Buy a few different bottles, and then try them one after the other. Even if you come across a wine you don't care for, you will have added to your knowledge without having spent much money. A bottle of wine costs less than a ticket to a new movie these days, and you don't have to stand in line to enjoy it. You can also buy a selection of half bottles, each of which actually contains less alcohol than a cocktail.

Never buy the cheapest wine in any category, as its taste may discourage you from going on. The glass, corks, cartons and labor are about the same for any wine, as are ocean freight and taxes for imported wines (which are based on gallonage, not value). Consequently if you spend a little more, you are buying a better wine, because the other costs remain fixed.

You are invited to send in any questions on the subject of wine or spirits and I'll be happy to answer them personally or in print. Mrs. Gary C. Merrill

Merrill - Pillsbury

On Sept. 12, the Ballard Vale United Church was the scene of a two o'clock wedding uniting Miss Karyn Allyce Pillsbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson Pillsbury, 17 Tewksbury St., and Mr. Gary Charles Merrill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frederick Merrill, Jr., of 15 Jones St., Dracut.

Rev. Charles Fowlie officiated, assisted by Rev. Millard H. Aubey of Greenwich, N.Y. Rev. Aubey is the bride's cousin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sheer gown of embroidered marquisette with a high Peter Pan collar, full sleeves, fitted bodice, and long train. She wore a fingertip veil of imported illusion which fell from a sweet-heart bonnet. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Mary Jane King of Andover was the maid of honor. She wore an Empire-waisted gown of light pink chiffon with long, see-through sleeves and a stand-up collar. She carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses, lacey poms and carnations. Karla Jo Pillsbury, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Her gown was medium pink of the same style as the maid of honor. She carried a smaller version of the maid of honor's bouquet.

Harold Frederick Merrill, III, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The ushers were Kane Pillsbury, brother of the bride, Scott Merrill, brother of the bridegroom,

Presented Citation

Beta Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority has received a certificate of appreciation for dedication in service to the physically handicapped from the United Cerebral Palsy Association in recognition of their contribution to the Lawrence Rehabilitation Center last year.

Announcement of the citation was made by chapter president, Mrs. George Saalfrank, at the opening meeting of the season on Sept. 14, at the home of Mrs. Peter Allison. Another highlight of the evening planned by social committee members Mrs. Walter Selfridge and Mrs. Donald Kramer was a delicious "gourmet dinner" with each member bringing a special dish to complement the menu.

Village Gardeners In Session

For its opening meeting of the season, the Village Garden Club recently enjoyed an evening of Japanese Flower Arranging in the traditional and modern mode by guest arranger and designer, Mrs. Benny Chojin. Hostess for the event was Mrs. Paul Petit of Juniper Road.

Mrs. William Coderre, president, welcomed new members into the organization and a brief business meeting followed. They include: Mrs. Merwin Anderson, Mrs. Woodrow Crowley, Mrs. Harold Forman, Jr., Mrs. Cecil J. Moulton, Mrs. Douglas Maxwell, Mrs. Alan Porter and Mrs. John Sleath.

Program plans include a visit to Strawberry Banke in Portsmouth, N.H. on Sept. 21. Members are looking forward to a guided tour of the restoration area with special emphasis on indoor and outdoor horticulture.

The oldest pictures of wheels are found in Sumerian bas reliefs, dating from the fourth millenium, B.C., which show a solid wheel made up of three segments of wood.

Enrolled

Alan D. Maclaren, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Maclaren of 63 Reservation Road, is enrolled at The New Hampton School, New Hampton, N.H. in the class of 1972.

Appointed
History
Professor

Dr. Donald B. Cole

Richard W. Day, principal of The Phillips Exeter Academy, has announced the appointment of Donald B. Cole, Ph.D., as the Robert Shaw White Professor of History.

Mr. Cole was chairman at the History Department during 1961-1966 and lives at 63 Court St. in Exeter.

Mr. Cole was born in Lawrence, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Cole, 16 High St., Andover. He graduated from Phillips Andover Academy in 1940 and attended Harvard, from where he received an A.B. in 1944, an A.M. in 1947, and a Ph.D. in 1957.

Robert Shaw White, a member of the Class of 1936, drowned in 1950 while in Paris in an attempt to save an unidentified woman from suicide. He had been a Lieutenant Commander in the Navy and was studying at The Sorbonne for a doctor of philosophy degree from Harvard.

Mr. Cole joined the faculty of the academy in 1947. During 1967-1968 he was a visiting professor in American History at the University of California, Los Angeles. A Lieutenant (junior grade) in the Navy during World War II, Mr. Cole served as a Landing Craft Officer.

Mr. Cole is vice chairman of the visiting Committee to the History department at Harvard College and is chairman of the Committee on Teaching in the Secondary Schools of the American Historical Association. He was a consultant to the Educational Testing Service and to the United States Office of Education.

In 1965, Mr. Cole was the recipient of the Yale Secondary School Teaching Award and, in 1968, he was given the Kidger Award from the New England History Teachers' Association.

Mr. Cole is the author of several books, the most recent of which is Jacksonian Democracy in New Hampshire, 1800-1851, published by the Harvard University Press in 1970. He is also the author of Handbook of American History, published in 1968 by Harcourt Brace and World, and Immigrant City, a story of Lawrence textiles, published by the University of North Carolina Press in 1963. At the present time, he is working on a book about Martin Van Buren and spent the last academic year on Academy leave in Arlington, Virginia, to pursue this project.

Mr. Cole was the dormitory head of Langdell Hall for many years and was also a coach of varsity football.

He is married to the former Susan A. Wilson, daughter of Phillips E. Wilson, Instructor in History (Emeritus). The Coles have four children: Douglas, who graduated from the academy in 1970; Robert will graduate from the academy in 1972; Daniel will graduate from the academy in 1975; and Susan is in the eighth grade in the Exeter public schools.

Amended Record Satisfactory

Records of the Aug. 17 school committee meeting were squared away to the satisfaction of member Dr. Frank Griggs by his colleagues Tuesday night.

Among a couple of "humbugs," by Dr. Griggs in reference to proceedings as interpreted by other members, the record now shows that the meeting formally ended on motion of Frank Hill, seconded by Dr. William King, chairman.

Griggs had complained at the Sept. 7 session that the record was inaccurate and that the minutes showed Dr. King as chairman making and seconding the motion to adjourn. Griggs had been discussing the multi-age grouping plan to be introduced in the system this year, at the August session when the meeting was adjourned.

Dr. King the chairman, was absent from the Sept. 7 session, so the minutes were put over to this week for acceptance.

Tuesday night Dr. King said that the meeting ended without a quorum, "since Dr. Katz had left, Mr. Hill was leaving and you were having a little tete-a-tete with Vaughn Clapp about the multi-age grouping," contending that the meeting lacked a quorum to proceed.

Dr. Griggs differed, and said that this was not parliamentary procedure to end a meeting.

The minutes, following some additional discussion were finally adopted with the procedural changes.

Lloyd To Examine Shawsheen

Robert Lloyd, instructor at Phillips Academy and an architect, has been retained by the school committee to develop plans for the best educational use of the Shawsheen school.

Dr. Daniel Frishman, school committee member who is recovering from a recent illness, informed his colleagues by letter Tuesday that his special study group examining the school had found problems in effectively utilizing existing space.

Dr. Frishman said that basically the problem resolves itself to adapting an old building to a modern educational program.

There is space available in the building, but not readily adaptable to teaching stations, Dr. Frishman feels.

He said that he had asked Lloyd if he would work with the committee which was given $500 to perform the study and that the P.A. architect had agreed.

Lloyd was chairman of the building committee responsible for the Bancroft school.

The school board unanimously accepted Dr. Frishman's recommendation to retain Lloyd.
